BIOGRAPHY OF GEORGE G. ANDREWS

President & CEO

CAPITOL CITY BANK

With advocacy for the African-American community as his cornerstone, George Andrews has built a solid professional career in Atlanta and the State of Georgia as a people's banker. He was the Founder/Director of Capitol City Bank; and this institution has grown and prospered under the watchful eyes of Mr. Andrews, who currently serves as its President and Chief Executive Officer. Capitol City has four branch offices in Atlanta, including Hartsfield International Airport, and a new regional office which recently opened in Albany, Georgia.

George Andrews was educated at Booker T. Washington High School and Morehouse College in Atlanta, Georgia, where he received both a meaningful education in academics and the sensitivity to serve his people. After graduation from Morehouse, he entered the world of business through the Trust Company Bank's Management Training Program. Most of his tenure with Trust Company was in branch management and commercial lending. It was during this period that he became aware of the fact that African-American business owners sometimes need special attention to launch their businesses and that the status-quo banking establishment was not the place for this kind of service. George Andrews had found a niche and began to dream.

He left Trust Company Bank in early 1983 to join the National Bank of Georgia as an area branch manager. In 1984 he graduated from the School of Banking at Louisiana State University in New Orleans. Two years later, he re-joined Trust Company Bank and remained there until his dream of a financial institution dedicated to support the African-American community become his daily aspiration. In 1994, Capitol City Bank began operations in Atlanta, Georgia.

Mr. Andrews is extremely involved in his community serving on several Boards of Directors including the Urban Residential Development Corporation, the Urban Ministerial Alliance, the Atlanta Metropolitan College Foundation, and formerly MARTA. He was appointed by Governor Roy Barnes to serve on the Private College and University Authority Board, and he is chairman of the marketing committee for the Independent Community Bankers of America. He is actively involved with the Interdenominational Theological Center, the Adams Park Neighborhood Association, the West End Merchants Association and the Community Bankers Association. He is married to the former Janice Smith and they have two daughters, one son, and one granddaughter. He is a member of the Zion Hill Baptist Church.
